

Kenny Oyedeji
1441 8th Avenue
San Francisco CA 94122

Sep 5th 2018

Via ECFS
Marlene H. Dortch, Secretary
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street, S.W.
Washington, D.C. 20554

Re: In the Matter of Petition of USTelecom for Forbearance Pursuant to 47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

Competitive broadband is needed. The more competition in the marketplace is a cornerstone of business in America. New providers are bringing two things that are needed to the US families and businesses, faster internet at an affordable price. We built and created the internet, yet somehow due to big businesses corporate greed, we have some of the most expensive services and slowest speeds in the world and get charged exorbitant rates, b/c they can. My household recently switched to a local provider who is running new fiber lines and increasing the infrastructure for the San Francisco, Bay Area. It costs us a fraction of the price, over 10x the speed, which has allowed for a better experience working from home, solidified home security with our internet connected security and makes consuming movies, streaming TV etc much more enjoyable and actually has increased our subscription to other US based entertainment companies, (netflix, Hulu, DirectvNow etc). It's literally changed everything and every household should have a CHOICE. Keep things REGULATED. It will spur on everyone being connected faster and having a great price that will increase quality of life and actually force big business to get with the times, stop relying on old infrastructure and greed and start being innovative again. Innovation should drive business, not monopolies and blocking out the little guys.

Kenny Oyedeji